FROM THE RABBI

DEDICATION AND INCLUSION – and LEARNING

Laurel was touched by her standing ovation
 And the congregants' praise in profusion.
 Marcia was awed by members' dedication
 And her feelings of total inclusion.

This was one of several quatrains in the rhyming thank you we received from Laurel Federbush – our October Harpist in Residence – and her mother, Marcia. How appropriate! Dedication is our ongoing theme of the year as we figure out what it is about B'nai Sholom that is worth rededicating ourselves to. We are the bastion of Judaism in a very broad area – for 50 miles to the east, 150 to the west, and more in any other direction. That is only a reason to persevere if there is something of value here.

Laurel's mother hit upon one strength of ours: Inclusion. We excel at welcoming guests. Not only do we have an accessibility ramp up to the bima, we have an accessible restroom. In keeping with the Reform Movement's recent resolution in support of transgender individuals, it doubles as a gender-neutral restroom.

Why do we care? The principal is called in Hebrew Betzelem Elohim, in God's image. Bereishit (Genesis) 1:27 – "In the image of God, betzelem Elohim, God created [humanity]." As each individual is a reflection of God, each person deserves honor, kavod in Hebrew. Rabbi Yochanan ben Zakai was the leading sage in the Land of Israel at the end of the Second Temple period. Talmud tells us that he had a way to practice kavod every day: He took it upon himself to be the first to greet each person he met, whether or not they were strangers. You may say it's not safe to greet random people on the street. But Rabbi Yochanan lived in the END of the Second Temple Period – a time of great social unrest, to say the least. We can still let our sense of self-preservation guide us. However, the more common reasons we don't greet strangers are because we're too busy or self-absorbed, or it's just "not done." Try greeting everyone for a day. Let me know how it goes.

B'nai Sholom is the center of Jewish learning for this area. Judaism is a treasure trove of wisdom to help guide us in our everyday lives. I am looking for a group of people to study "Season of Mussar" with me this spring. Mussar is a practice of consciously living our values. The charge, which covers the materials we'll receive from the Mussar Institute is $100. I would be glad to provide a scholarship for anyone who needs it. What's more, I will donate $100 to B'nai Sholom for each person who signs up, so it won't be a drag on our fiscal situation. This is an investment in the value of Jewish learning. "Season of Mussar" is a more in-depth and engaged version of the Mussar study several of us have been doing for a year or so. January 17 will be our last one of those sessions for awhile. Come see what you think, or contact me so I can answer your questions about it.

Finding the value in Jewish learning will help us dedicate ourselves to its continuance.

Rabbi Jean E. Eglinton

A Season of Mussar

A Season of Mussar is a 13-lesson program that guides participants in active engagement with Mussar as a spiritual tradition and a discipline, in order to learn and to transform.

Life comes with tests – often in the relationships with the people we love the most.

Those tests try us. They also reveal the places where we have the potential to grow spiritually.

The Jewish tradition of Mussar offers wisdom for facing and making the most of life's challenges, to help you find peace, love and fulfillment in heart and soul.

Beginning
Sunday, Feb 7th
10:00–11:30AM

A Program of the Mussar Institute: www.MussarInstitute.org

Cost: $100. For more information contact Rabbi Jean Eglinton, rabbi@wv-bnaisholom.org, 304-522-2980.

The $100 fee goes to the Mussar Institute. They are providing the material as well as my training as a Mussar group leader. The successful completion of my training is contingent on leading this course. I will provide scholarships for anyone in need. I will also donate $100 to B'nai Sholom for every person who pays their own way so that we will not divert any funds needed for the congregation.

This is an investment in my development as a teacher, but more importantly in our congregations's development as a Jewish learning community.

EQUANIMITY – Menuchat HaNefesh

How to keep an even keel among life's challenges and rewards, Mussar-style!

"As long as one lives a life of calmness and tranquility in the service of God, it is clear that he is remote from true service."

Rabbi Israel Salanter, founder of the modern Mussar movement c. 1850

Wait. What?

Your life is not supposed to be calm – there is too much suffering in the world for that. Judaism isn't about sitting in a lotus pose on top of a mountain somewhere. The challenges are real and can be terrifying.

The rewards can go to your head. How do we keep our spirits on an even keel so we can keep doing what needs to be done? Let's learn together.

Happy New Year!

Wishing you a blessed New Year !
Wow! Did Chanukah seem particularly long to you this year?

Well it did to the shop ladies. Nevertheless, we have decided to extend this 8 day holiday for another month. Silly? Not to us.

In January, we will be giving a 15% discount to anyone buying Chanukah items.

If you are so over the menorah holiday, come in anyway and pick up our new cheese boards, dresser trays and pillows or any Judacia.
As always, kisses are free.
