Wednesday, September 18, 7:00 pm

Come celebrate the harvest season as we welcome the seven days of Sukkot, Festival of Huts!
Sing and pray, shake the lulav and etrog and nosh in the Sukkah.

AGAIN THIS YEAR - Festival Morning Services!

Sukkot morning is the first.

Thursday, September 19 at 11:00 AM

Special Festival Music and Reading from the Scroll of Ecclesiastes - or as we call it in Hebrew - Kohelet.
"To everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under heaven."

Noon to 1:00 PM: Lunch and Learn about Sukkot

Bring your own lunch - we'll provide the drinks. Please remember that we don't bring non-kosher food into the Synagogue, so fish, dairy and vegetarian lunches please.

Friendly Reminder: High Holy Day Service Courtesies

The High Holy Days: Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are almost upon us this year. We look forward to seeing all of you and your families at the upcoming services to celebrate, pray and connect with friends, family and fellow members of our Jewish community.

We welcome you and want to remind you of the need to be respectful and considerate of others. This applies to both adults and children. Please refrain from excessive talking and other noise or conduct that might be disruptive or otherwise interfere with others' participation in and enjoyment of services.

Please turn off all cell phones and pagers before entering services and limit the number of times you enter and leave the sanctuary during services. When entering or leaving is necessary, please avoid walking in front of the bima.

Whenever possible, enter or exit from the back or side of the sanctuary. Also, please do not enter or exit the Sanctuary while the Ark is open, which is usually the case when you see people standing.

FROM THE RABBI

SUKKOT – “A season is set for everything, a time for every experience under heaven.”

Ecclesiastes (Kohelet in Hebrew) 3:1

Please come to something new we're doing this year – that is really very old.

We are going to celebrate the festivals with a morning service – also a lunch and learn. That means for the first morning of Sukkot, Passover and Shavuot we will have a festival service at 11:00 am. Around noon we'll have lunch and study something appropriate to the holiday. Next summer on Shavuot we'll also have Yizkor (memorial service when we remember our dear ones) that same morning.

For Sukkot and Passover the Yizkor service will be on the morning of the seventh day.

The Music and Ritual Committee is hoping that by scheduling it around lunch time many of you will be able to fit at least part of the festival into your day.

Sukkot can be a hard sell. It comes five days after Yom Kippur. A lot of us feel like we've done a whole year's worth of Jewishness in 10 days! Let me urge you to extend that this year. Sukkot is a wonderful, joyous holiday. It is the one the Pilgrims used as a model for the first American Thanksgiving. Seeing as Thanksgiving comes at the end of November there is little outdoor component to it.

Sukkot, on the other hand, comes early enough in the fall that we can delight in the mitzvah of dwelling in the sukkah. We don't have a yard to build a sukkah in, so we decorate our mirpeset – our balcony as a sukkah. Then we spend as much time out there as we can – eating, reading, even sleeping. The idea is to realize both the joy and the fragility of life, and appreciate every moment. Sitting in a fragile shelter, open to the elements, also gives us a fellow feeling with those whose security is so much more precarious than our own – the homeless and the hungry. Those feelings lead to doing something to help, and our tzedakah for the month is chosen: We have until Simchat Torah to fill all our barrels for the Food Bank.

In August I went up to Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati (alma mater of both myself and Rabbi David) to a gathering called Mifgash Musicale. People who lead services met there to learn music and get ideas for how to imbue the festival services with meaning – and joy! No matter how much we learn there's always more to harvest from our rich store of Jewish traditions. Right now I'm working on learning to chant the scrolls for these holidays. The scroll we read on Sukkot is Ecclesiastes – traditionally understood as the wisdom of King Solomon's old age. We learn to accept the good with the bad – and keep living as joyfully as we may.

It is always more fun to be at services when you get to do something, so let me know if you'd like to do a reading in English or in Hebrew – or participate in some other way. I hope you come! Shake the lulav and the etrog – that oh so magical mitzvah!

Welcome to the High Holy Day Season. I regret that I don't have the capacity to lead all the services AND have meaningful one-on-one encounters with everyone there. I ask your forgiveness in advance and hope we can get together soon. May the season inspire you to reconnect with Judaism, with Jews, and with God.

L'shanah tovah umtukah – Wishing you a good year, full of very, very sweet times!

Rabbi Jean E. Eglinton

Please inform the Rabbi if you are in the hospital so that she can visit you.

If you or someone you love is in the hospital, please call the B'nai Sholom office: 304-522-2980.

If you would prefer not to be visited, she would be glad to call if you provide a cell phone number.

No one should have to put himself in harm's way just to put food on the table

Emery just chose to re-enlist in order to feed his family.

It doesn't have to be this way. MAZON is working to end hunger for Emery and the millions of Americans and Israelis who struggle with food insecurity.

High Holy Days Food Drive

B'nai Sholom Family,

Lets fill SIX BARRELS with food for Huntington Area Food Bank by the end of Simchat Torah!

Every time you come to Temple, please try to bring cans of food or other non-perishable food items.

Please place food in the barrels in the 10th Street foyer. We need everyone's help to help our neighbors in need.

COME SING AND DANCE WITH THE TORAH ON SIMCHAT TORAH!

MAZEL TOV!

To Jessica Pressman and Jay Fox on their recent marriage, July 20, 2013!

Thank You To...

- Mitch Klein for our Isaiah Food Bank banner.
- Joe Horn for taking toiletries to Harmony House.
- Judy Lentz and the choir for working hard all summer to prepare for the High Holy Days.
- Linda Klein for arranging Israeli Artist Zak Yitro's visit, and the Marshall Jewish Student Association, Federated Jewish Charities of Huntington, and B'nai Sholom Congregation for sponsoring these events.
- Sisterhood for providing food at all of our occasions--happy and sad.

Thank you from the family of Robert Broh

Dear Rabbi Jean,

Words cannot convey the depth of appreciation our family has for all that you did for us at such a sad time in our lives. Your service was personal and caring; thank you for making it meaningful..

To our congregational friends Tori and David Wucher, Judy Lentz, Tom Pressman, David Glick and Norman Davis--how kind of you to stand with us in mourning at Spring Hill.

To Tom Scarr--for his diligent work in making things happen--you have our gratitude. Our Bob may have left Huntington years ago, but Huntington never left his heart. He is finally "back home."

B'Shalom,

*The family of Robert Broh:
Jenny, Randy, Becky, Scott and Sara.*

THANKS TO EVERYONE WHO HAD ME, SAM AND MY FAMILY IN THEIR THOUGHTS AND PRAYERS DURING THE RECENT DEATHS OF MY SISTER AND MY SISTER- IN- LAW.

JAMES MORRIS-SMITH

Dear Rabbi Jean,

We want to thank you again for all you and the Congregation did to help us with the loss of our mother, and we also want to specially thank you for what you did for her while she was alive. ..

We are of course also grateful to the Sisterhood.

Simchas & Tchotchkes

The Rabbi is ready. The Cantor is ready. The Choir is ready.
The Building is ready. Goodness, even the Oneg Committee is ready.

Are you ready?

Yippee!!! The shop ladies are ready to help you.

We have stocked the store with stuff; necessary, essential, religious and playful stuff. Stuff you will need to be truly ready for the most important 10 days of the year 5774.

And yes, we learned the correct year by looking into the stuff.
So come in and peruse the goods. All things needed for a religious, profound and sacred holiday.

Especially for this grand time for all Jews in the country and, indeed, the world, the Shop Mavens are offering 2 free kisses instead of one (this will be a limited offer due to the shortness of supplies).

Shop early and often . . . when it's gone, it's gone.

Sherri 304-529-6398

Barb 304-633-7070

Lisa 304-638-3116

P.S. (a first for the Shop) we have a limited supply of Shabbos candles.
Get them while they last.
